Background

Cakrawala International Business Competition

Based on the PDDikti, the number of students in Indonesia has currently reached nearly 10 million. This figure highlights the immense potential of the younger generation as a source of innovation, creative ideas, and business initiatives that can drive entrepreneurial growth while contributing to the national economy. However, this vast potential has not yet fully evolved into sustainable real-world businesses.

Data from the National Research and Innovation Agency (BRIN) in 2024 shows that only a small fraction of startups in Indonesia originate from student initiatives, and most still face challenges in scaling their businesses. Many business ideas stall at the early stages due to limitations in market validation, financial planning, and the formulation of mature business development strategies. Furthermore, the 2023 Global Entrepreneurship Monitor Indonesia report indicates that many student business ideas remain underdeveloped due to a lack of access to competitive platforms, mentorship, and opportunities to test ideas professionally.

Meanwhile, amidst rapid technological advancements and shifting global market demands, students are expected to provide business solutions that are innovative, relevant, and sustainable. In response to these conditions, the Cakrawala International Business Competition (CIBC) 2026 is here as a platform for students to develop, test, and present innovative business ideas through an international-scale business plan competition. This competition is designed to foster the birth of business solutions that are creative, adaptive, and have a tangible impact on society and the environment. Through CIBC 2026, participants are expected not only to be able to draft conceptually strong business plans but also to have the courage to take their ideas to a more competitive level, both nationally and internationally.
